

CAT IN A BOX

The inflatable catamaran that fits inside your trunk.

Stop paying for that marina slip, and sell the boat trailer for scrap metal. Just arriving in the U.S., the MiniCat Super is a one-man catamaran that packs down small enough to stash inside a closet. This 77-pound, 10-foot-2-inch craft with inflatable rubber floats and a collapsible aluminum mast assembles in roughly 30 minutes, no tools necessary. Although none were in the country yet at press time to test, we're intrigued by what we see. The small size means it should be easy to handle for beginners, while a combined 5.5 square meters of mainsail and jib hint at a boat that's responsive enough to entertain seasoned sailors. Especially if those sailors are taking it to the Bahamas. $4,800; [minicat-usa.com]
